

SLAP Lab

Science, Law & Policy

INFO SESSION: Wednesday, Oct. 14, 3:30-4:30 p.m.
North Building, Room 232

Are you a postdoc, grad student, or undergrad (sophomore, junior and senior)? Join Professor Nita Farahany for an info session to learn about opportunities in the SLAP Lab.

SLAPLAB is an interdisciplinary laboratory designed to bring science to bear on questions of law and policy.

Faculty, postdocs, grad students, and undergrads work together on research projects and publications, studying the roles of science in law and policymaking, with a particular emphasis on the biosciences.

We'll use consumer technology and devices (e.g. Google Glass, Consumer EEG devices, tDCS) to conduct collaborative empirical and laboratory research.

At SLAPLAB, you can:

- Design new research studies
- Engage in ongoing research
- Present works in progress
- Discuss recent relevant literature
- Develop scholarship, multimedia, and policy for publication and dissemination
- Visit with outside speakers

RSVP: scienceandsociety@duke.edu