

Never Let Me Go (2010)

Directed by Mark Romanek, Book by Kazuo Ishiguro

Tuesday, March 3, 6:30 – 8:45 p.m.

Science & Society Classroom, North Building 232

Join Science & Society for a screening and discussion of the film Never Let Me Go, based on the novel by Kazuo Ishiguro. The film explores themes of cloning, the concept of humanity, and the value and definition of human beings. What is the source of personhood? How does it, and how should it, change as science propels us forward?

Following the screening, we will engage in a discussion of the legal and scientific context of the film with Professor Kim Krawiec, JD, of Duke University Law School and Professor William Hurd, M.D., M.P.H., of Duke University School of Medicine, and Director of the Division of Reproductive Endocrinology and Infertility.
